UNIVERSITY

The Texas Tech Gymnastics' Club has been competing for over three decades. The club has its debut competition season in 1979 under coach Wally Borchardt with only three experienced gymnasts. Since then, the Texas Tech Gymnastics Club has been the collegiate gymnastics powerhouse of west Texas.

The club competes in the TGC (Texas Gymnastic Conference) and NAIGC (National Association of Intercollegiate Gymnastics Clubs) conferences. The Lubbock based team travels hundreds of miles across the state multiple times a year to compete against their rivals and has made its way across the nation each year to compete nationally. The Red Raiders have made their home in one of the Texas' most prominent colleges, and has had a history of teams and individuals qualifying for the final competition in the NAIGC national championships.

Club Dues (per semester)

All Members.....$130.00

Member dues include:

- Travel: Gas and Hotel for away competitions
- Competition Fees: $10 per competitor plus $20 per team
- Partial to Full Flight Expenses to out of state competitions
- Sport Club Expenses

The club receives financial support from their recreational sports department and conducts various fundraisers such as flips for tips, car washes, and sponsorships from local businesses to help keep the cost to their members down.

Although they do not have an on campus facility, the Red Raiders work out off campus from Monday - Thursday 7:30 pm – 9:30 pm. The facility is located within hotel walking distance, making it the ideal place to host their annual home competition.

Membership in the Texas Tech Club is open to any undergraduate or graduate student currently attending the University. In recent years, even a few medical student pursuing their doctorate of medicine have competed under the Red Raider flag at collegiate competitions.
